BRINGING MAP VALUES HOME TO BALI!

Hortus

In Buleleng Regency, northern Bali, a group of Indonesian RSE workers, known as Hortus Team Bali, is showing how shared values and teamwork can make a big difference. Guided by Hortus's MAP values, they have channelled their collective earnings into projects that benefit their entire community. From tree planting and rubbish clean-ups to supporting schools, their story is one example of how RSE workers create meaningful change, showing that impact can take many forms. Through their dedication to improving their community, Hortus Team Bali has led transformative initiatives that uplift those around them. With every project, they focus on creating lasting change that benefits everyone. Here is some of the incredible work this team is doing:

Planting hundreds of native trees

Regular rubbish clean-ups

Restoring natural spaces

Promoting environmental health

Installing community rubbish bins

Contributing funds to local schools & community groups

Portion of earnings collected to support those who are unable to work due to sickness & disability

Covering school fees & supplies for children in need

For Hortus Team Bali, pride comes from knowing their actions inspire others and create lasting impact. By living the MAP values every day, they set a powerful example that purpose, hard work, and care for others can create a stronger, more connected community. This pride gives their work in New Zealand deeper meaning. By connecting their efforts to a greater purpose, they are building not just a better future for their village, but a legacy of shared values and collective growth.
